AP courses are extremely demanding in terms of homework, study time, and overall effort. Students can expect to spend on average an additional 6-8 hours of homework per week for each AP course. Enrolling in any AP course is considered a major commitment for both students and parents. For that reason, it is important that you carefully consider all of the other commitments you have at school, home, and in the community, before enrolling in any AP course.

I understand the above commitment. Student's initials:_____

Students who enroll in the Advanced Placement classes are expected to take the AP exams in May 2011. The commitment for AP classes is for the entire term and once a student commits to a class, they will NOT be dropped. AP classes typically include required pre-requisite work that must be completed prior to the beginning of the course. It is the student's responsibility to pick up an AP Course Information sheet and check requirements and meeting times.
